French Double Troops In Ruhr Valley in Week; Completely Encircle It

Fresh Contingents Arriving and Being sent to Strengthen Those on Duty.

KEY MEN PLAN STRIKE

By Associated Press.

DUSSELDORF, Jan. 27.—Fresh contingents of troops were continuing to arrive in the Ruhr, taking positions in various parts of the valley and also on the other side of the Rhine. By tomorrow it is expected there will be twice the number of effectives that were there last Sunday.

How completely the French have encircled the Ruhr was shown during the night when a train destined for interior Germany, drawn by four locomotives where one would have been sufficient was halted east of Dortmund and three of the locomotives returned to the occupied area.

The telegraph division of the postal service sent a delegation to General Simon today and delivered an ultimatum for the removal of soldiers from the premises of the telegraphers, failing which a strike would be called Monday. Complete calm prevailed in the valley today.

MUNICH, Jan. 28.—Bavaria was under a modified form of martial law today as a means of preventing week-end meetings of the National Socialists and Facisti. Premier Von Knilling's request that the leaders cancel their plans for outdoor gatherings met with refusal by Herr Hitler, head of the Fascisti, whereupon "an exceptional state" was proclaimed. The police and the reichswehr assured the premier that they would coöperate with the government.

Court Holds Lack Of Jurisdiction in Coke Company Case

By Associated Press.

PARKERSBURG, Jan. 27.—In a lengthy written opinion Judge W. E. Baker, in Federal court Friday on a petition for dismissal of the receiver in the case of G. W. Thompson and S. J. Harry against the Southern Connellsville Coke Company, held that the court is without jurisdiction and directed the dismissal of the bill following which the plaintiff gave notice that the case will be taken up with the United States Circuit Court on appeal. The court directed that the receiver's account be settled in such manner as may be agreed upon by the parties interested.

The controversy was among the stockholders of the company, who have a large mine in Monongalia county, the product of which is transported across Cheat river to Cheat Haven, Pa., where it is coked. A year or more ago, Richard Sherrick of Connellsville, was appointed receiver on the petition of the minority stockholders and has been in charge of the plant ever since.

Coblenz Area Is Turned Over To the French

By Associated Press.

COBLENZ, Jan. 27.—The Coblenz area of occupied Germany held by American troops since the establishment of the Allied "Watch on the Rhine" was turned over to the French at noon today.

Major General Henry T. Allen, commander-in-chief of the American forces, and General Marty of the French army were the two officers involved in the transfer.

This final ceremony, ending the four years of American occupation, was of simple character. General Marty, accompanied by a single French officer, came to General Allen's headquarters where the commander and his full staff received him. Promptly at noon General Allen turned over the area to the French commander.

The formal transfer of authority took but a few moments. It was accompanied with expressions of regret at the departure of the Americans.

ATTENDING INSTITUTE PREFERRED TO "TERM PAPER" ON HISTORY

Numbered among the persons attending the teachers' institute at the High School Auditorium this week was a daily average of 80 students, and thereby hangs a tale. At the previous session of the institute W. L. Lewis, teacher of American History in the senior and junior classes, told his students that all attending the sessions of the institute, regularly, would be exempt from writing a "term paper" of 1,500 to 2,000 words on history. The attendance of students this week was the result. The teacher kept a record. The plan was to interest the students in the instruction given in the institute. And they enjoyed it, the teacher learned many times during the week.

"HUNGARIAN KING" LEAVES $750,000 ESTATE TO HIS KIN

The will of Joseph Wolf of Swissvale, the "Hungarian King," well known in Connellsville, has been filed for probate in Pittsburg. It disposes of an estate valued at $750,000, placing it in trust for his children and grandchildren, and names Joseph H. Ruben, a former bookkeeper and Elsie M. McGaw, executors and trustees.

Mr. Wolf was one of the first immigrants from Central Europe to settle in Pittsburg. He was first employed as a laborer but soon established a hotel in Braddock to which fellow-countrymen and other immigrants made pilgrimages from long distances to meet acquaintances and consult Mr. Wolf about their affairs. He soon became widely known as the "King of the Hungarians" and his influence among the foreign laboring classes, especially in times of strikes, was powerful. He did considerable work toward bettering conditions of his fellow countrymen here and was instrumental in founding several banks in foreign communities. His will shows that he acquired extensive coal holdings in Fayette and Somerset counties. He had often been in Connellsville on business missions.

B. & O. Shop Crafts Ask Conference on Increase in Wages

BALTIMORE, Jan. 27.—The federated shop crafts committee of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad has demanded a conference with the management on a proposed increase in wages of 10 cents an hour, with time and a half for overtime on Sundays and holidays, for machinists, blacksmiths, boilermakers, sheet metal workers, electricians and car repairmen. The men now want 80 cents an hour.

Prior to the shopmen's strike last summer all shop workers were earning 77 cents an hour. The decision of the labor board, which led to the strike, called for a reduction to 70 cents. Thus the men demand a higher pay than that in force prior to July 1, 1922.

The Baltimore & Ohio was one of the two large railroads which settled with the shopmen under the Baltimore plan. The other was the New York Central, but it reported that it had received no new demands.

One change in working conditions which the workers seek from the Baltimore & Ohio is that men installing water and other pipe lines in ditches shall be provided with waterproof boots.

Fake Wet Agents Get Money From Saloon Keepers

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Jan. 27.—Sharpers are collecting a great deal of money from saloon keepers and others interested in the liquor business as agents of a mythical movement to bring about the enactment of anti-prohibition legislation at Harrisburg according to complaints received by the county authorities today.

The sharpers, according to Robert H. Braun, chief of county detectives, carry petitions bearing the endorsement of Chief Braun three judges, and a number of attorneys. The petitions are on stationery stolen from the district attorney's office. From $25 to $100 each is demanded from saloon keepers on the plea that the county authorities want the money to fight prohibition legislation. FRANKLIN CITIZENS WOULD RETAIN BODY OF UNKNOWN SOLDIER

By Associated Press.

FRANKLIN, Pa., Jan. 27.—A corroded identification tag and the belief that an "unknown soldier" was buried next to him were responsible for the apparent mistake in sending home in July, 1921, a body which was honored as that of Private John B. Ross, 112th Infantry whose body is now being held at Hoboken for shipment here.

While arrangements are going forward for the receipt of the "second body," identified by a Franklin High School pin with his sister's initials, "M. A. R." (Myrtle A. Ross) which he wore on the lapel of his coat, a committee of Rotarians has set on foot a movement to retain the first body, now buried in a local cemetery, as "Franklin's unknown soldier."

The War Department has written Superintendent of Schools C. E. Carsey as follows:

"The records show the remains of the late Private John D. Ross, Co. E, 112th Infantry were originally reported as buried in Grave No. 117 at the American Cemetery at Fismes, Marne, his grave being marked with one of his identification tags on the cross, and an unknown soldier reported in Grave No. 119. The remains of this unknown soldier, when recently disinterred, bore a corroded tag together with a Pennsylvania collar ornament and a Franklin, 1918 High School pin of 14-karat gold with the initials M. A. R. on the reverse side."

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Ross, the parents, are now convinced the second body is that of their son, who was killed in action while crossing the Vesle river.

Meanwhile Franklin is trying to devise plans and retain the body now "unknown" in the hope it will be able to honor the "unknown soldier" right at home on Armistice and Memorial Days.

ARREST OF NEGRO WITH SUITCASE LEADS TO THE UNCOVERING BOOZE RING

Special to The Courier.

SCOTTDALE, Jan. 27.—In the arrest of a negro with a suitcase, one who "looked" suspicious, the police last night struck a trail that led to the arrest of two others engaged in the manufacture and sale of moonshine whisky and the confiscation of a lot of the wet goods, and incidentally the collection of $300 in fines under the borough's recently enacted dry ordinance.

The negro gave his name as Swaney, of Everson. Questioned by Chief Frank McFadden, he said he bought a gallon of whisky contained in the suitcase from John Mansene, Pittsburg street shoemaker. Along with Patrolmen Frank Ganoe and Austin Hyde the chief went to the shoe shop and found four gallons of whisky. While they were there there was a knock at the door. The chief answered. There stood a woman with another gallon. The officers arrested the woman and then went to her home in Vance street where they said they found a still and seven barrels of mash.

Delving a little deeper into the case the officers found, they said, that the woman was making the liquor and selling it through the shoemaker to negro bootleggers. ...

Mount Pleasant Girl in Highly Nervous State as Result of 'Spirit's' Visits

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Jan. 27.—An investigation by officers is under way here to determine the facts as to an alleged apparition which has all but wrecked the health of Miss Margaret Frejosky of Morewood, 20 years old, an employe of the Anchor Glass Company. Harassed by the almost nightly "visits" of the "spirit," as members of the family describe it, the girl has become pale, wan and haggard and is now under the care of a physician.

According to the story of the girl the form which she says appears in her bedroom is that of a person yet alive; a man—an American miner—with whom she once occasionally kept company but whose attentions she eventually refused.

Miss Frejosky is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Frejojsky. According to the story told a representative of The Courier the visits of the "spirit" began last March and have continued ever since, "almost every night." So alarmed has the girl become that she will no longer sleep in a room by herself, but now sleeps with her mother. But the visits continue, though it was said the mother never has seen the form.

According to the members of the family the apparition makes its appearance usually just after Miss Fredjosky has fallen asleep. The visitor is described as tall, dark and gaunt, with steely eyes. His hands reach forth to grasp her throat but before they touch her he vanishes. No word has even been spoken, it was said. Occasionally the apparition appears more than once a night. Thursday there were said to have been two visits, both after 1 o'clock in the morning.

Only when she sleeps in bed does the nocturnal visitor come, the members of the family said. The girl tried sitting in a chair. Then the ghost did not walk immediately on going to bed it appears, according to the story.

Members of the family said they have often watched but that on these occasions there is no appearance. They said they have investigated other ... have at no time found doors or windows open.

Housing Situation Handicap to B. & O.; No Quarters for Men

The housing situation in Connellsville is again proving a detriment to the growth of the city. The Chamber of Commerce sometime ago took some action to bring about the construction of more homes here to relieve the difficulty of the Lockhart Iron & Steel Company in securing labor for its Sligo mill and now the Baltimore & Ohio railroad is facing the same condition.

Labor is needed on the railroad, both skilled and unskilled, but there are no quarters here for men with families and most skilled mechanics are married men.

A railroad official said this morning that the Baltimore & Ohio shops here are doing an enormous business and even running beyond normal, 100 more men than usual being employed. Instructions have been received to put on additional machinists, but they are not available. A few have been secured but many would not take jobs at the Connellsville shops because they could find no homes in the city for their families.

Every furloughed man has been returned to work. Difficulty in securing new labor is because of the demand for machinists in other industries.

Track labor is also somewhat scarce. This situation will be overcome by establishing camps, however, and using the floating labor. Much of this class is the foreign element, and camp houses are very suitable to such men, mostly bachelors.

The railroads have been using a number of men, formerly employed in the mine, and a majority of these may leave their new work to return to the pits since the calling off of the strike.

Local contractors are anticipating considerable building in the spring, especially as the Chamber of Commerce is urging the step. The commerce body executives feel it is the first thing to be done in bringing about a bigger Connellsville. With the facilities of the city for providing homes now overtaxed, it is contended, there is little use of endeavoring to add to the industries already located here. The building program holds the complete attention of the body.

BRITISH FUNDING PLAN IN "HANDS OF POLITICIANS"

THE EAST IS FAVORABLE

By Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, Jan. 27.—Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, returning from his debt mission to Washington, told newspaper men that settlement of the debt question in the United States was "in the hands of Congress" and that this situation constituted "the great difference between America and this country." Explaining that in America "you may have an executive which is willing to do a great deal for you but cannot because of difficulties" encountered in Congress.

Mr. Baldwin described Americans as a country not "an urban people."

"They have men of our way of thinking in the eastern states," he said, "but that does not cut any ice at all with regard to the other parts of America."

ANNUAL TEACHERS' INSTITUTE CLOSES; MOST SUCCESSFUL

The fourth annual combined teachers' institute of the Connellsville and Dunbar Township School districts closed this afternoon. It was pronounced the most successful ever held in the history of the two districts. The attendance yesterday was credited with being the high water mark for any institute of like nature.

Dr. Jesse Hays White spoke on "Initiative" as it relates to school children, this morning. He said the place to begin initiative was right at home and then to continue it on through the schools. He brought out that many children had a lack of initiative through fear, suggesting that frequently a student refrained from expressing him or herself because of fear of the teacher or fear of giving the wrong answer, or some such cause.

Dr. White recommended that teachers and children to discard this fear and work through initiative of their own. Initiative in early days of a youth developed independence and resourcefulness in life, he told his audience.

Dr. Albert Lindsay Rowland spoke on "Measuring the Efficiency of Teaching." He also made an address this afternoon. Dr. White closed the afternoon session by a talk on "The Spirit of the Game."

Dr. Rowland also spoke yesterday afternoon. He expressed pleasure over the manner in which the teachers of Pennsylvania are responding to the state-wide teacher training program, remarking that approximately 25,000 took courses in special work last summer. He expressed the belief that teaching is more important to society than medicine and said he hoped that in the near future teaching would reach a development where those who can qualify must first take four years of post high school work.

Carl T. Anstine, instructor of music in the High School, contributed a piano solo, "Polichinelle," by Rachmaninoff, at today's afternoon session. Will A. Rhodes sang today.

Wall Paper and Paint Given Away

On one certain day in January we will refund the price paid for every article purchased from us on that day. No strings, no advances in prices. No reservations made except on

Linseed Oil, White Lead and Turpentine

No matter how much you buy. You can buy enough paper to paper your entire house, or paint enough to paint it.

This is the plan that we have arranged with the Colonial National Bank. They take a January calendar and mark one date, Sundays excluded, with a cross as illustrated:

It may be the first day of the month that is marked, or it may be the last, or anywhere between, so it will pay to start early and scatter your purchases over the entire month.

This January calendar is placed in an envelope and sealed by the Cashier, and kept by the Colonial National Bank. On the first day of February this envelope will be opened by an officer of the bank in the presence of responsible witnesses and the date marked will be announced in this paper.

No one but the bank officer will know the date. This means to everyone who bought goods from us on that date, and paid for them in cash, we will refund every dollar at purchase price. It makes no difference how many people, where they are from or how much your purchases, it all goes.

ARE YOU LUCKY?

SATURDAY EVENING, JAN. 27, 1923.

ASSURING SUCCESS OF LARGER HOSPITAL PLANS.

The meeting in the interests of the movement to provide better hospital facilities for Connellsville held in the Library on Thursday evening, accomplished two things which will be helpful in giving the right start toward a consummation of this very worthy and necesary project.

First, there was presented information concerning the conditions under which the Cottage State Hospital is and has been operating. That this institution has been chronically short of funds, due to the inadequacy of the state appropriations is somewhat of a surprise to the people of the community, while knowledge of the fact that the deficit for the present biennial period is approaching a total of $15,000 is a no less unpleasant revelation. That this situation has been courageously met by the trustees by lending their personal credit to pay its bills and keep the institution functioning, shows to the public that these men have been doing even more than is required of them in their self-sacrificing and thankless task of administering the hospital's affairs.

It is fortunate, however that there has been a clearly stated presentation of the facts relative to the hospital's finances, not alone as a means of enabling the public to better appreciate some of the difficulties by which the trustees have been confronted, but also to give a more accurate idea of the magnitude of the proposition to enlarge and better adapt and equip the hospital to meet the needs of the territory it serves.

There have at times been hints that the board of trustees has been somewhat too reticent in giving out information as to hospital affairs, thereby creating the impression in some quarters that there was a disinclination to take the public into its confidence. Happily this impression has been dispelled by the frank utterances of the members of the board who spoke at Thursday evening's meeting. That the board is in entire sympathy with, and stands ready to give every possible form of assistance to the movement looking to a larger and better hospital, was made so plain that there can be no shadow of doubt as to the personal and official attitude of the members toward the proposition.

That all misconceptions with respect to the hospital's administration have been thus removed, and information as to its precise condition with respect to maintenance has been made available, the second of the developments at the citizens' meeting came in logical order and sequence.

It having been ascertained that the legal conversion of the present hospital into a general hospital involves the enactment of special legislation which might encounter difficulties at present unseen the alternative, and doubtless the easier and better, course is to follow the precedent established at the Phillipsburg Cottage State Hospital. There the citizens raised a fund of $125,000 which was applied to building an addition to the existing structure and equipping it so that it could function as a general hospital. This was in effect an outright gift to the state, which the trustees of the cottage hospitals are authorized to receive, and the enlarged institution will continue to be under the direction and control of the trustees appointed by the governor for that purpose.

To carry out the same plan here it was wisely suggested at the meeting on Thursday evening to organize and incorporate an association, the object and purpose of which will be to raise funds and have general supervision of their expenditure in adapting the present institution to the requirements of a general hospital.

[illegible] s to a knowledge of hos[illegible] ed, and being in full agreement with [illegible]r Hetrick's suggestion that leadersh[illegible] he need of the present situation [illegible] an organization is the next, and at this time the vitally important step to be taken.

The committee charged with this duty has a very great responsibility as it members no doubt fully realize. Upon the wisdom exercised by them in the choice of persons to assume direction and control of the proposed association and its activities, the success or failure of the whole proposition will depend. On part of the public there is every confidence that this committee will approach its task with a conscientious determination to select only those who, by their character, experience, temperament, energy, zeal in a good cause and other qualities are best fitted to serve in the several capacities to which they may be assigned.

When this committee has completed its labors and the hospital association has been fully organized we will then be in position to move toward an achievement of our goal with such a assurance of success that it will be in the heart of no single citizen to do less than their utmost to aid in this very laudable undertaking.

With official confirmation of the coke strike having been declared off the workers in the region are beginning to get onto some of the ways by which they were deluded into losing nine months' earnings.

If reports are to be credited a "Hindenburg line has been laid down between the section of the castle at Doorn occupied by his new wife and the section occupied by the ex-kaiser.

Driving Americans Out

From "The Westward Tide of Peoples" by Lieutenant Commander K. C. McIntosh, U. S. N., in the February Scribner's.

There are many townsmen still living in the Connecticut Valley who can remember when practically every farmhouse in that fertile tract of land contained a family of old New England stock. Today one can ride mile after mile without hearing a word of any language other than Polish. The immigrants came not merely in families but in communities. The Americans moved out and left them alone.

What has become of the American farmers of a great part of northern New Jersey? They have vanished before the influx of Italian market-gardners. Whole counties of the grain belt are now peopled by Bohemians, Czechs and Letts. The Americans have gone. I do not decry the new occupants of the soil. They are making better use of it than the old ones did, or they could not have crowded them out, but the fact remains that without wholesale immigration the Americans would not have been crowded out.

They are driving Americans out all over the country. You may be next!

Just Folks

Edgar A. Guest.

I WOULD NOT GRIEVE TOO MUCH.

I would not grieve too much. The prom se tells
That rest is his who sleeps so sweetly there
Beyond the dull slow tolling of the bells
Which marks his passing life is free from care.

You would not mourn if one you love should rise
To wear the royal purple and the crown
Should gain the glory of the great and wise
And put the tools of humble service down.

Suppose that life should call some friend you know
Out of the ranks and end his days of care
You would rejoice and smile to see him go
Though you remained to work and struggle there.

Should high promotion call some friend away
To crown with conquest all his early years,
You would not plead and beg with him to stay
But thinking of his joy you'd hold your tears.

So when [illegible]th comes though hard it seem [illegible]
And lo[n]g the years with all their loneliness
The loved one has been called away from care
To high promotion rest and happiness.

He has been called from pain and hurt and strife
From all the ills which fall to flesh and cl[ay]
He has been raised unto an ampler life
Nor should we mourn too much who still must stay.

Carey ASFALTSLATE SHINGLES

"The Shingle that Never Curls"

YOU build for future years as much as for the present when you roof with Carey Asfaltslate Shingles.

Summer sun and winter snows only enrich the color and charm of your Carey Shingle roof. The pretty red, green and blue-black colors never fade.

Every shingle will always lay perfectly flat without the slightest curl just as the day it was nailed on.

The crushed slate surface will ever protect against fire-danger from flying sparks, you will save every year on your insurance, and the extra-heavy felt base, saturated with enduring water-proofing asphalt, will always resist weather as when you first "moved in."

Let us estimate for you on Carey Asfaltslate Shingles.

The Greatest Improvement Ever Made In Warm Air Heating!

This type of Down Draft Furnace, patented by DePolo and Freshley, is made particularly for the discriminating buyer, who is looking for the highest and most efficient type of furnace construction.

METHODS OF HEATING

For the home nothing approaches the warm air heater. Much depends upon the installation of the warm air furnace, the kind of pipes used, and the proper installation of the same. Of course it is understood that no heating system will give satisfactory results unless it is adequate in size and properly installed. The house owner in too many cases has accepted the lowest bid on his heating job and has suffered the consequences.

The Joy of Living

by Sidney Gowing

Copyright 1922, by Sidney Gowing

I should not like to say that there is. But it is a tradition in the family and has been well vouched for. I have never seen it. Diana seems to imply," added Lady Erythea a little acidly "that only those who are advanced, and in tune with the infinite see such things. If she thinks she is more spiritual than I she is welcome to try. She will discover nothing whatever." Lady Erythea turned to her nephew. "Bertrand de Jussac is coming also."

"De Jussac?" cried Alexander staring at her.

"Yes. You know him I think."

"I have met him of course," said Mr Lambe dryly. "I should have thought this was the last house that so frivolous a person would wish to visit. Why is he coming? Surely he is not interested in the ghost?"

In the ghost—no," said Lady Erythea with a faint yet serene smile "but possibly his interest may arise. I approve him. A young man of excellent standing and irreproachable descent."

"Two days—but it is possible she may be persuaded to prolong her visit," said her ladyship placidly.

"What is the Vicomte de Jussac like?"

"D'Artagnan—in the flesh. With a touch, perhaps of Porthos. The type which it is a good woman's mission to reform. But this is outside your province, Aimee," she said abruptly, and laid a hand on the girl's shoulder. "Go my dear child, and get your cousin away from his books. Take him for a drive and some fresh air."

"Hullo! What's the trouble now?" exclaimed Aimee. "I say, Georgie, dear I'm beastly sorry about being in the arbor. I couldn't help—"

"Oh never mind that now!" broke in Georgina distractedly. "A much worse thing's happened. I knew how it would be. Lady Diana Lambe is coming. she'll be here in an hour or two."

Rapidly she repeated the news concerning the two expected guests. Aimee received it with consternation.

"Cold Lambe!" she exclaimed "Coming here? As if I hadn't enough to bear without that! It's the worst news yet."

"Wh what did you call her?"

"Aimee! She knows you, doesn't she?"

"Of course. She lives in town. She's the only one of the Lambes I do know. And Diana hates me and—well, I've never pretended to like her either. She's perfectly pitiless. she'll give me away like a shot and flatten me out. She'll be all over it."

"Let us hope," said Georgina breathlessly "that Monsieur de Jussac will

Aimee sat on the bed and exploded with laughter.

"That aunt of mine is incorrigible!" she gasped. "I tell you it's perfect rot. You might as well try to melt an iceberg fresh from the Pole. This French vicomte won't stand the slightest chance."

"Do you know him too?"

"I've heard of him. They say he's rather a—a tip. I expect that means he's a good sort. But Diana—heaven preserve us. Well she probably won't know me in this rig, but she'll know you're the wrong horse. And then zizz! boom!—up we all go in the air. You and Billy and me—and Alexander!"

Georgina sat down and pressed her hand to her forehead.

"Aimee," she said faintly. "The burglary and all the rest of it has upset me. I don't feel well. I—I have headache and I can't come down to dinner. I shall go to bed."

"What a trump you are!" said Aimee kissing her with intense affection. "It's the very thing. I'm so sorry Georgie. It'll be beastly dull for you in bed dear."

"I shall like a little dullness," said Georgina pathetically as she left the room. "It will be restful. Goodby dear. You will have to keep out of Diana's way as best you can."

"I'll take jolly good care I do," murmured Aimee fervently as she put her cap straight. "Even Billy can't help this time!"

CHAPTER XVIII

"Cold Lambe!"

Lady Diana might have been the original of that tedious young woman who was described by the poet as "divinely tall and most divinely fair." She was without doubt strikingly beautiful a type of the large and very pale blonde. But an atmosphere of frigidity surrounded her which many people found repellent.

"My dear aunt," she said calmly entering the drawing room and kissing Lady Erythea, "so good of you to have me for this flying visit. Alexander how are you?" She touched her brother's cheek with her lips.

"You will have a clear field for your investigations my dear," said Lady Erythea "and I hope the advances you have made in psychic science will—ah—bring you to terms with the ghost. But I doubt it. By the way your cousin Aimee is here as I told you. But she is unwell and is keeping her room. I am rather anxious about her. Incidentally we shall have another guest. I expect Monsieur de Jussac today."

"He is very anxious," said Lady Erythea glibly "to examine the Lambe collection of armor. We have a suit of mail which is believed to have been captured at Crecy. there is a tradition that it belonged to one of the De Jussac family."

Lady Diana looked incredulous.

"And I understand he is interested in psychic matters and anxious to improve his knowledge."

"That is something in his favor," said Diana with suspicion.

"I expect that is his car," said Lady Erythea.

A rakish automobile of semi racing type was observed sweeping along the park drive. The Vicomte de Jussac had motored direct from town.

A minute later he presented himself. Bertrand de Jussac was tall and for his age rather full bodied. His complexion was healthily ruddy he had a little black mustache and a jolly roving dark eye. In spite of his very material appearance he had undoubtedly the bel air. He raised Lady Erythea's skinny fingers to his lips.

"Enchanted dear lady to pay homage to you sur vos terres. How very amiable of you to invite me."

Lady Erythea bestowed on him the smile she reserved for elder sons. "Charmed to have you. You know my niece, surely?"

Bertrand's little start of surprise was admirably done. He bent low over Diana's hand but refrained from kissing it.

"But this is delightful!" exclaimed Bertrand. "You told me in town Lady Diana, that you were interested in the ghost. Happy ghost! I too am developing rapidly an interest in the psychic I hope—"

"I thought it was armor that attracted you here," said Diana frigidly.

"Helas mademoiselle," said Bertrand, allowing his dark eyes to meet her pale blue ones "there are weapons against which armor is of no avail."

"With your bent for ancient history Diana," interrupted her aunt "you should know more of the Lambe armor than I do. Why not show it to Monsieur de Jussac so that he may commence his studies. You'll find most of it in the hall."

"I think Monsieur de Jussac had better pursue his own investigations for I shall be fully occupied with mine," said Diana "and for the present I will retire to my room if you will excuse me Aunt."

She glided majestically through the doorway.

The Vicomte's eyes followed Diana's departure.

"Adorable blonde!" he mused. "The invincible phlegme brittanique. But it is the icy inaccessible peak that spurs the courage of the mountaineer."

He sat down and made himself particularly pleasant to Lady Erythea.

"THE LARIAT THROWER," with Franklyn Farnum in the stellar role and the first chapter of "Around the World in Eighteen Days," a Universal serial featuring William Desmond are splendid attractions today at this theatre. "Around the World in Eighteen Days" is a twelve episode screen story of romance and adventure, a film rival of Jules Vernes famous classic ... written in a day when eighteen days instead of eighty may be counted on to cover a trip around the globe. Robert Dillon George Bronson Howard and Frank Howard Clark wrote the story.

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE WORLD'S CHAMPION" showing today at this theatre is a Paramount picture with Wallace Reid in the stellar role. The story concerns the son of a British commoner who falls in love with a lady of the nobility, is rebuked by his father, goes to America and in seven years becomes the middleweight champion of the world. He returns to England thrashes a former rival and then is accepted by the girl after he confides to her that he is now an attorney in law having taken up law after retiring from the fight game the undefeated champion. The characters are played in a satirical vein and the comedy is rich and highly entertaining. Lois Wilson is leading woman.

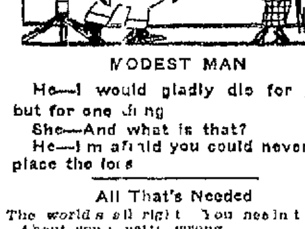

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE YOUNG RAJAH," Rodolph Valentino's new picture will be seen at this theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Never before it is said has the colorful Rodolph Valentino been given as great an opportunity to demonstrate his versatility and peculiar acting genius as in his recent Paramount vehicle. "The Young Rajah." In this picture adapted from the play and novel "Amos Judd" by June Mathis, Valentino is first seen as a college hero at Harvard. At the crew race in which Amos Judd, Valentino's name in the story pulls a winning stroke oar for Harvard against Yale he meets Molly Cabot and falls in love with her. Amos has a past. He is an Indian prince of royal blood who was left mysteriously as a child with an old New England couple and adopted and reared by them. Amos has the mysterious faculty of being able to read the future. He foresees that his happiness with Molly will be beset with difficulties. Sure enough their romance goes on the rocks despite his ardent love making and Amos is kidnaped and taken back to India. There his duty to his original people asserts itself. He feels called upon to oust a usurper from the throne—and does so. In the end Molly comes back to him and unlike its predecessor "Blood and Sand," the picture ends happily.

The Sturdy Six of Long Life

Why the Jewett Is a Good Investment

Some folks think only of looks when they buy a car. Thousands have bought this Jewett on looks alone. But there are things to know about the Jewett which will make you prefer it to all others.

Ever notice how comfortably the Jewett rides? You are surprised at such easy action in this size car. It comes from extra long springs and the extra weight of rugged construction.

If you are wise you can't be fooled on rugged construction. You can feel it—or the lack of it—by the way a car rides. The trembling, bouncy car is flimsy. The steady, comfortable car is substantial. Do we need to tell you which car is a good investment? You can feel the Jewett's long life in the way it rides.

Will its power endure—remain smooth and quiet? A very important question. A short-lived motor makes any car a poor investment. How can you tell whether a motor will keep its power and smoothness? You don't need to be an engineer. With your ear and just one simple fact you can tell the answer.

Speed up the motor. Listen! Is it quiet? A noisy motor is poorly designed for long wear. And the one fact you need to make sure of is a high-pressure oiling system.

Jewett's high-pressure oiling system sends three gallons of oil per minute through all main and connecting rod bearings at 20 to 40 pounds pressure. It constantly bathes the entire mechanism in oil. Friction is reduced to nil. No chance for such a motor to wear out for years. Yes, you can prove the Jewett is a good investment.

Connellsville High School Beats Scottdale Hi Before Greatest Crowd in History

GOOD SPIRIT PREVAILS

By James M. Driscoll

Scottdale High School playing in top-notch form was unable to stave off defeat at the hands of the Connellsville High School Friday night. The Cokers showed they were a determined lot and reversed the ... although for a time the pace seemed to start in the beginning of the final quarter. Aside from the early stages of the game the locals maintained the lead at all times. The ... Orange and Black riding on top a margin of four extra points giving them the edge. It was at the opening of the second half that Coker strength showed to its best advantage. The team worked several signal plays about as many minutes ... It was a game practically devoid of unnecessary roughness, something ... in a contest marked by the rivalry existing between the two teams. Scottdale was accorded the best of treatment. Some Mill Town rooters arrived ... could not get into the school but they were no more unfortunate than many Connellsvillians.

Walters Scottdale forward sprained his ankle within a minute after the opening of the game and had to leave the floor. White took his place. ... Smith.

ARLETT UNMOVED BY BIG LEAGUE OFFERS

Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati and Charley Ebbets of Brooklyn Surprised When Pacific Coast Team Refuses to Sell

Some big league moguls notably Garry Herrmann and Charley Ebbets, were surprised that offers for Pitcher Buzz Arlett of Oakland were turned down by Cal Ewing and Del Howard. They seemed to have the idea that every Coast league club had its price, but they found that the Oaklanders were not moved.

The Oakland club has signed Arlett to a contract for next year and intends to keep him one more season, after which he will be permitted to go to some major club if he desires—but when it comes to "desiring," the story is that Arlett prefers the coast to big show fame and glory. And the player's wishes are entitled to some consideration.

Talk to the Oakland magnates and they will tell you that their city is the coming metropolis of California; that they will have the best baseball town in forty states in time, and that when it comes to dollars and cents that they wouldn't trade their prospects for a mortgage on any one of a half dozen major league cities.

Oakland last season inaugurated the policy of playing all its "home" games at its own park instead of splitting them with San Francisco. Despite a lot of bad luck, the experiment was satisfactory and the attendance all that was expected for a beginning, and it is the conviction of Ewing and Howard that Oakland will be coming year rank well toward the front in the matter of drawing crowds.

Oakland's big asset is that it has room to grow. It already has a population of some 400,000 to draw from and the surrounding territory is booming. San Francisco, on the other hand, is cramped for room and can go so far and no farther. It is much like the borough of Manhattan. Oakland is to San Francisco what Brooklyn is to New York.

SOX MAY LET PENNINGTON GO

Chicago Club Probably Will Not Keep Grand Rapids Central League Player

The Chicago White Sox may not keep Howard Pennington, purchased from Grand Rapids, but this fellow has shown enough good work in the Central league to guarantee he is better than a Class B ball player and probably will have every chance in the world to show what he can do higher up.

Famous scientists, working along the arctic coast of Alaska, have dug up a lot of ivory and some interesting fossils. So have most of the big league baseball scouts.

The subject of the morning sermon is, "When the Great Guest Came." Worn in life work, tending the sicknesses of body and of soul; wearied with meeting the malice of men, He sometimes went away from humankind into the field for solace and sympathy, and found them; for "the olives they were not blind to Him, the little gray leaves were kind to Him, the thorn-tree had a mind to Him, when into the woods He came." When at last He came to the great city, the door of every house was closed to Him. After a hard day's toil—a day of conflict—"they went every man to his own house," and He, as usual, with no place to lay His head, sought rest in the bosom of a nearby friendly moun-

CHRISTIAN—George Walker Buckner, minister. Bible school at 9:30. Senior and intermediate Christian Endeavor at 6:30, topic, (same for both) "What Are the Rightful Claims of Our Church Upon Us?" The senior leader is Miss Anne Schwenck, the intermediate leader, Boyd Porter. Morning worship and sermon at 10:45, subject of sermon, "Acceptable and Profitable Worship." Evening service at 7:30, subject of sermon, "Exchanging Riches." The evening sermon is to be considered as a sequel to that of last Sunday evening—"If I Were a Millionaire." Roger Babson has written a book, entitled, "Enduring Investments?" It would be well to read it and see what the world's greatest business statistician says on the subject. What is the right place of riches in this life? Any valuable commodity is of greatest value when it is performing its function. The farmer produces, from a 40-acre field, 1,200 bushels of wheat. That is more wheat than he can consume; but there are others, and, in some respects, greater, needs than this one cereal, and after his bread necessities have been met, the value of his wheat supply can be measured only by its exchange value. So with all wealth, above our needs.

How To Draw Checks.

A check is the simplest of all bank forms, being merely an order for the bank to pay a certain sum of money to a designated person out of the funds belonging to the drawer of the checks; yet a check is one of the greatest safeguards against errors, loss or the necessity of paying bills the second time. The Citizens National Bank welcomes deposits subject to check and affords every assurance of positive safety for money. —Advertisement—24-27-jan.

Waists New for Spring Are $3.50 Up

THERE'S a freshness, a neatness, a crispness about them that proves these new waists were intended to help usher in the Spring.

Smart tailored models betake themselves to both roll and Peter Pan collars for their smartest touches.

One notices a great deal of very neatly done hand drawn work and the clever use of filet and other charming laces as trimming.

Materials are very good grades of dimity and voile. They launder well. Each time they're ironed they seem as new as the day you bought them.

New pongee tailored waists are also included in this first Spring showing. They are fine for every day and sports wear. New prices range $3.50 up.

New Bertha Collars For Spring Frocks

WE HAVE to be up on our toes to keep pace with Connellsville's demand for Bertha Collars. The latest shipment we've received contains Berthas of more than the usual desirability.

They are fashioned in rich, quaintly old-fashioned laces. And the range of shade offered includes white, and two shades of ecru.

Fashion authorities assure us that the vogue of the Bertha will continue unabated in the Spring. Which is your best reason for making a selection from these very latest models.

You have our word for it that they are unusually beautiful. Their prices range $1.25 to $3.75. Favored laces are Venise and Filet.

Something Good Is on the Way!

IT'S THE SALE that has become almost an institution in Connellsville—Wright-Metzler Store's Annual February Sale of White.

The thrifty mother who likes to make underwear for herself and her children is going to profit in it. The woman who prefers to make her own waists and tub blouses is going to profit in it. As are all women who like to buy lingerie of rare quality at a saving.

We have been working for some months assembling merchandise for this event. Fortunately the majority of it was bought at figures much below the present market prices. These savings are to be passed promptly on to you. Watch for details soon!
